Presentation of the main Characters:

Amina

Amina is a young Somali woman. She's shy, sensitive, and very determined. At first, she struggles to adapt to Italy: the language is difficult, everything seems new to her, and she often feels alone at school. Despite this, she always finds the strength to keep going.

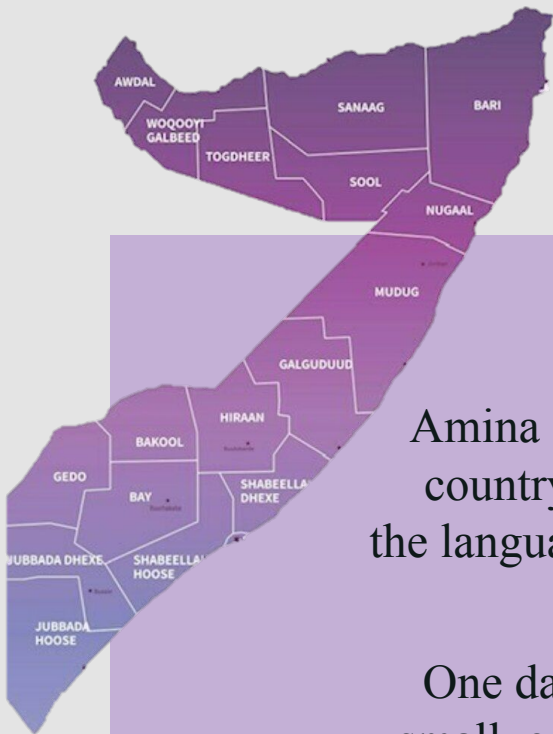

Giulia

Giulia is a classmate of hers. She's open-minded, kind, and very curious. She's the first to notice Amina and offer her help, starting with a simple smile. She patiently accompanies her in her Italian studies and helps her feel welcome.

Context and Story

Current situation in Somalia:

Today, Somalia remains highly unstable and in some areas is on the verge of war. The armed group Al-Shabaab controls parts of central and southern Somalia, including the capital Mogadishu, launching attacks against civilians and public facilities. This violence causes displacement, hunger, drought, and a lack of essential services, forcing many people to live daily under the threat of conflict and humanitarian crises.

Story:

Amina is a Somali girl who arrives in Italy with her mother, fleeing a country made dangerous by war. At first, everything seems difficult: the language, the new school, and feeling understood. Some classmates tease her, and Amina becomes increasingly withdrawn.

One day, Giulia, a classmate with a kind smile, offers her help. With small, everyday gestures, she supports her in her Italian studies and in integrating into the classroom. Professor Rossi also encourages her and helps her discover her talents.

Over time, Amina gains courage, improves her language skills, and finds her place in the classroom. By the end of the year, she has new friends, more self-confidence, and the dream of helping others, as Giulia has done for her.

The importance of knowledge should not be lost in a glass, and school is a hand that takes us further.

If you have lit even a single torch in someone's dark hour, you will not have lived in vain.
